COURSE CONTENT

UNIT 1	ASSESSMENT
Sail across the 'new world' and explore the harsh global consequences of imperialism and colonisation during the height of the British Empire. Liberty, equality, fraternity, or death! Delve into the world of the French Revolution to discover the origins of the protest movement: where ordinary people changed their lives and grabbed hold of their destiny to forge a better world.	Formative Exam: Short Response to Historical Sources Assignment: Independent Source Investigation
UNIT 2	ASSESSMENT
Fight the good fight alongside our First Nations freedom fighters in a unit of study focused on the demolition of the Apartheid System in South Africa and the Tent Embassy in Australia.	Assignment: Historical Research Essay Exam: Essay in Response to Historical Sources
UNIT 3	ASSESSMENT
Nations have responded to crisis in a variety of ways but two in particular, Germany and China, responded by installing totalitarian dictatorships. Take a journey along the road to power taken by Hitler and Mao Zedong and hear from those who resisted the call.	Assignment: Independent Source Investigation (25%) Assignment: Historical Research Essay (25%)
UNIT 4	ASSESSMENT
James Bond may have been fictional but the time that inspired him was very much real – the Cold War – where two superpowers fought for supremacy by any means necessary. Discover this world of spies, secrets and subterfuge before delving into a conflict that defined a generation – the Vietnam War.	Assignment: Historical Research Essay (25%) External Exam: Short Response to Historical Sources (25%)

What Caboolture State High School students have to say about Modern History

"Modern History is interesting because we get to learn about wars and dictators. It is also interesting to see how recent events have impacted our society, plus we get to be critical of the choices from the past."

"You will deepen your understanding of the past and engage with others while learning about critical events and key figures that contributed to society today."

"You gain knowledge about how society formed, how things used to be and how they came to be the way they are today."
