COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Studying music will help students gain the confidence to be creative, innovative, thoughtful, skilful and informed musicians. Students will build skills to compose, perform, improvise, respond and listen, and will gain knowledge and respect for music and music practices across global communities, cultures and musical traditions. Studying Music can sharpen memory, teach discipline, allow for creativity, and fosters teamwork and collaboration. Students who study music will develop problem solving skills, time management skills and communication skills.

COURSE CONTENT

Music involves singing, playing instruments, listening, moving, improvising and composing by manipulating the music elements to express ideas through sound. This subject has been designed for students to specialise in the areas of playing and singing, learning to write their own music using computer software, listening to and analysing a variety of styles of music. Theory and practical aspects of the course are integrated together.

UNIT 1	UNIT 2
Music with a Voice This unit looks at how music communicates messages, emotions and images through the manipulation of music elements. Students will explore the way music has been used throughout history to build awareness around community issues and its ability to evoke emotions within the listener. Over the semester, students will study a range of musical styles including Protest Music and Blues and Jazz.	Discover the Classic Music is always evolving. This unit will explore the repertoire of key composers from the Baroque era through to today. The first half of the unit will focus on the various music eras, while the second half of the unit focuses on the development of music technology and electronic music.
